GRIEVANCE PROCEDURE

Complaints on match-day should be directed to a match-day attendant. Depending on the nature of the issue, complaints will be handled by security or the match-day attendant or directed to ground management.

Anti-social behaviour can be anonymously reported by texting the seat location to 0421 267 567 at the Sydney Cricket Ground. At all other interstate venues, the relevant number will be displayed on static signage in stadium and/or on the big screen before and during matches; a match-day attendant will then come to assess the situation in your area and deal with it accordingly.

It is expected that members communicate with each other in a calm, honest and ethical manner; abusive, demeaning or threatening behaviour will not be tolerated.

In the event of a complaint being deemed harmful to values of the Club or the team, the Club will be forced to take action and this may result in the offender/s being removed from the stadium and/or forfeit membership privileges at the Club's discretion.

A complaint may come from within the Cheer Squad, other patrons, the AFL, representatives of the Sydney Swans Football Club, the SCG and all other AFL venues.

PENALTIES

Should the Sydney Swans Football Club determine there has been a breach of this Code of Conduct, a verbal and/or written warning will be given. The AFL are also able to hand out fines for match day breaches of the guidelines listed in this document.

All verbal and written warnings will be placed on the Cheer Squad member's permanent file. A warning (1) will be issued before the Club will either have the membership card and/or Cheer Squad membership suspended or cancelled depending on the nature of events.

The Sydney Swans Football Club reserves the right to immediately cancel or suspend memberships at their discretion for any reported or observed breaches of the member code of conduct or for behaviour not in line with the clubs' values.
